Impossible Victory By Sam Dilbeck

Impossible. The word reeks of destitution and despair. Impossible. It squelches innovation, hinders progress, and discourages effort. Impossible. It also precludes the greatest victories of our culture.

Beat the Russians in hockey for the gold medal? Impossible.

Reverse the curse of the Bambino? Impossible.

Drive out the Redcoats backed by the world's greatest navy? Impossible.

Impossibility is also the beginning of the most epic victory in history. In the beginning God created perfection. Heaven was filled with angels living in purity. The Garden of Eden was the perfect paradise to cultivate the crown jewel of God's creation—mankind. Adam and Eve had access to God, the Tree of Life, and every resource they needed.

But, sin corrupted the creation. The angel Satan challenged God and fell from heaven. Then disguised as a serpent, Satan tempted mankind with the forbidden fruit. The innocence of mankind was destroyed and his relationship with God was shattered. Sin separated man from God (Isa. 59:1-2).

Paul explains the dire situation of sin, "Therefore, just as sin came into the world through one man, and death through sin, and so death spread to all men because all sinned" (Rom. 5:12). As long as sin and death reigned, mankind's hope for perfection and paradise was impossible.

Each of our personal battles with sin will end in eternal destruction because it is impossible for us to win by ourselves. Satan revels in his apparent victory over us. But it is from the depths of defeat and tragedy that our victory comes.

Victory is all about Jesus. He gave up his equality with God to become the perfect man (Phil. 2:5-9). He took on human form with its limitations and pains. He bore shame and disgrace on the cross. Then at the pinnacle of his suffering, the Father looked away, causing Jesus to cry out, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (Mark 15:34). When he cried, "It is finished," he hung his head and died.

Then the devil danced. He leapt with joy and shot his fist into the air. He claimed his most powerful victim. Surely his plans to take over heaven couldn't fail. He just killed the Son of God. It would be impossible for God to stop him.

In his arrogance and self-promotion, Satan failed to see this would become his greatest defeat, not his door to victory. Three days after Jesus died, he arose from the dead. Life filled the tomb and rolled back the stone. "Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil" (Heb. 2:14). Then Jesus sang the victory song. He bound the devil and cast him into the abyss (Rev. 20:1-4).

Now Jesus shares the victory with those who obey him, "But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Cor. 15:57). Before Christ, it was impossible to overcome sin, but through him we gain the miracle win. Far beyond a title belt, gold medal, or championship series, this victory means heaven for everyone who seeks it.

Every great victory begins with impossibility.
